

THE INDIA CLUB

FRICITION

17–20 MAY 2018

Hotel Strand Continental, 143 Strand,
London WC2R 1JA (next to Somerset House)

Private View: Wednesday 16 May, 7–11pm

Thursday 17 to Saturday 19th May, 10am–10pm
Sunday 20th May, 10am–6pm

The fourth iteration of the India Club exhibition by the London-based artist collective Specular Assembly takes as its starting point the word friction.

The theme is interpreted through different frameworks, varying from site-specific exploration of the space and history of the Club – currently under threat of re-development*, to more universal readings of friction through capitalism, surveillance, the body, conflict, the sensual and precarity. Utilising media from photography to installation, sculpture and artist books, the show will take over the two rooms of the India Club located on the first floor of the building.

The exhibition features work by five of the collective's members as well as by two invited guest artists, Eliza Tamo and Richard Galpin.

Specular Assembly is a London-based artist collective with a focus on site-specific exhibitions. The collective was formed in 2014 by Ben Cave, Leon Chew, Christopher Down, Will Jennings, Katja Mayer, Lee Milne and Minna Pöllänen.

The Hotel Strand Continental sits between Somerset House and Waterloo Bridge. An unassuming door off The Strand leads to The India Club bar and restaurant, founded in 1946 by V.K. Krishna Menon, the first Indian High Commissioner to the UK. The building was a hub for political activity and its rich history is still apparent in the distinctive interiors, which have changed little since its opening.

The exhibition is part of Photo London's satellite programme.

TALKS

All talks take place at the venue.

Friday 18th May, 6pm

London's Developing Frictions with Anna Minton

A conversation about the repercussions of the changing face of London's built environment and how it is affecting all of us who live here. With neoliberal political and economic forces critically affecting the city and how it works, there are numerous community led actions seeking to disrupt, with new models of city-making that works against the smooth processes of capital and development to build a new London for all.

Saturday 19th May, 2pm

India's Oppositional Frictions with Guy Mannes-Abbott

In Gujarat, Eastern India, precarious tribal communities developed a Green Economic Zone to counter the frictionless machinery of Special Economic Zones, formed top-down by government and business and often to the detriment of the existing people. What lessons are there for a London over-run by the Opportunity Area vehicle of demolition and community displacement as witnessed across London, including Elephant and Castle's Heygate Estate?

Sunday 20th May, 2pm

Specular Assembly artist talk

Artist from the collective will discuss the exhibition, their relationship to the venue and its history and how the four years of this site-specific relationship has affected their working processes.

Richard Galpin

Richard Galpin's work is concerned with urban growth and transformation. His 2D and 3D works are dynamic visual observations of urban development, with an emphasis on the apparatus of construction sites, urban infrastructure and the surfaces of the city. The work is underpinned by early conceptual works and writing around the theme of erasure. These themes find echo in later works relating to the preservation or erasure of traces of history in cities during processes of redevelopment.
